

Distributed on August 15, 2022

8.12 Jail Differential

Employees ~~in a Building Maintenance Assistant classification,~~ Building Trades Mechanic classification (series) and/or Stationary Engineers classification (series) assigned to ~~perform work in a~~ County adult detention ~~facility~~facilities/jail facilities (namely: Stanton Correctional Facility, Claybank Detention Facility, Justice Center Detention Facility and Rourk Vocational Training Center) will receive a two and one-half~~five~~ percent (2.5~~5~~%) pay differential for each hour, or portion thereof, worked in ~~the~~such adult detention facilities~~ty/jail~~ facilities.

Employees working in the Building Trades Mechanic classification that are allocated to work in the Sheriff's Office will receive a five percent (5%) pay differential.

The percentage of jail differential paid to the Building Trade Mechanic classification is based on the allocation of the position (i.e., General Services or Sheriff's Office) and only one (1) jail differential may be received.